Website: <http://dcps.dc.gov/service/dual-enrollment-program>

Open to: Rising Seniors at Anacostia, CHEC, Coolidge, Eastern, Phelps, Wilson, and Woodson

Areas of Study:	Students will be accepted as part-time, non-degree students for one academic year, with access to special support services from the Multicultural Student Services Center (MSSC). Students will enroll in 6 credits for the academic year, 3 credits each for the fall and spring, which may be selected from any of the University's various departments of study except those in the School of Business. Course selections must be approved by the MSSC staff. Summer enrollment is not an option.
Special Requirements:	Students applying for courses in the Corcoran School of the Arts and Design must also submit a portfolio of 5-10 completed works of art through SlideRoom ( https://gwcrcoranschool.slideroom.com/ ). All students selected for the GW-DCPS Dual Enrollment program must attend a required orientation session.
Tuition and Fees:	Tuition and fees are covered by the University. For students taking courses in the Corcoran School of the Arts and Design, costs of art supplies are expected to be funded by the student. All accepted students must complete an OSSE dual enrollment scholarship form to apply scholarship funds to book and art supply fees.
Support Services:	Orientation and academic counseling provided by MSSC staff. Free tutorial services are also available through the MSSC.
Additional Information:	Although consideration will be given to all students who have participated in GWU-DCPS Dual Enrollment program who have applied, admission to GWU through the GW-DCPS Dual Enrollment program does not imply subsequent admission as a degree candidate in the undergraduate schools at George Washington University.
Metro and Bus Access:	George Washington University is directly adjacent to the Foggy Bottom-GWU metro station (blue/orange/silver line). It is also accessible via metrobus routes 30N, 30S, 32, 33, and 36.
